

Some of our customers have hundreds of customers they're serving with the same ticketing interface and set of "ticket listings". Our old listing designer for defining the columns and their order meant you had to enable the listing for each customer, meaning a new customer meant a trip to each listing setup to add the customer to the visibility. We've now added an "All Customers" choice to the definition of a listing. We hope you like it.