

This makes it easier to see at a glance what new transactions have come in so the employees can more easily determine in advance what they need to do with their open expense reports.