

We now support routing based on all kinds of field/document contents. We've implemented this as "skip conditions" that can include just about any practical logic condition.